List of academic databases and search engines

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

This page contains a representative list of major databases and search engines useful in an academic setting for finding and accessing articles in academic journals, repositories, archives, or other collections of scientific and other articles. As the distinction between a database and a search engine is unclear for these complex document retrieval systems, see:

- the general list of search engines for all-purpose search engines that can be used for academic purposes
- bibliographic databases for information about databases giving bibliographic information about finding books and journal articles.

Note that "free" or "subscription" can refer both to the availability of the database or of the journal articles included. This has been indicated as precisely as possible in the lists below.

This is a dynamic list and may never be able to satisfy particular standards for completeness. You can help by expanding it with reliably sourced entries.

Library of University of Pittsburgh

The screenshot shows the University Library System Course & Subject Guides website. At the top, there's a banner featuring the University of Pittsburgh logo and the text "University Library System Course & Subject Guides". Below the banner, a blue navigation bar includes links for "Getting Started", "Books", "Subject Databases", "Regions of Asia", "Resources by Country", "Statistical Resources", "Religion Databases", "Help", and "Maps and Media". The main content area has three columns: "International Data", "Statistical Web Sources", and "Ask-A-Librarian". The "International Data" column lists various websites like City-Data.com, GEOHive, International Data Base (IDB), International Statistical Agencies, and Nation Master. The "Statistical Web Sources" column lists sites such as Country Statistical Yearbooks: An Alphabetical Index, OFFSTATS: Official Statistics on the Web, Statistical Sites on the World Wide Web • Bureau of Labor Statistics, UN Statistical Databases, World by Map, City Population, and Population Statistics. The "Ask-A-Librarian" column features a chat interface with a message saying "Chat is offline." At the bottom, a URL is provided: <http://pitt.libguides.com/c.php?g=12555&p=66458>.

Tables (STADAT) - Themes

Major data, indicators collected by HCSO or transmitted by other organizations are included in the table system of ready-made tables. We release territorial data by county and region and major international data by the member states of the European Union as well as by some other countries to ensure the option of intra-country and cross country comparison (further international data are available in the Hungarian-language collection of static tables of Eurostat). The STADAT-tables are free to download – in an Excel format as well – and to print. There is a methodological guide to facilitate the interpretation of the tables. The tables belonging to the given first releases will be indicated in the contents of STADAT tables, and they will be updated along with the publication of first releases, at 9.00 a.m. More »

Regional Atlas - Public administration structure of Hungary

Public administration structure of Hungary on 1st July 2009
Similarly to the practice of other countries, spatial structure and settlement structure of Hungary is laid down in the Constitution. Accordingly, the total national area is divided into the capital, counties, towns and villages. The capital city is split into districts, while towns can be broken down into districts. Villages, towns and the capital are settlement-level units, which necessarily cover the total national area. Counties are territorial units consisting of settlement-level units.
The 19 counties came into being as part of the public administration reform in 1949–1950; the basis of this structure was the network of 25 counties that remained within the current Hungarian borders.

Introduction

We support national statistical systems to meet the data needs of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, through

- methodological guidance
- modernization of statistics
- capacity development.

By bringing together experts from across the statistical community, we look for common efficiencies and innovative ways to tackle persistent and emerging challenges in official statistics.

In January 2019, the EU Open Data Portal implemented DCAT-AP (the DCAT application profile for data portals in Europe), a specification based on W3C's Data Catalogue Vocabulary (DCAT) for describing public sector datasets in Europe. As part of DCAT-AP, a list of themes has been developed to categorise the datasets and facilitate interoperability between EU and national data portals.

In addition to the 'Themes' data-classification category, a new data-classification category of 'Groups' has also been added. The 'Groups' data-classification category offers an alternative way to navigate and discover datasets, based on user requests and suggestions. While the list of options under the 'Themes' category is predefined, the list of options under 'Groups' will grow, adapting to user needs.

ASEANstats - Association of Southeast Asian Nations

ENC Direct to GIS

NOAA's ENC Direct to GIS allows users to display, query, and download all available base editions of NOAA ENC® data in a variety of GIS/CAD formats, using web mapping service technology. Nautical chart features contained within a NOAA ENC provide a detailed representation of the U.S. coastal and marine environment. The data, updated weekly, is organized using S-57 object classes. Features in a single NOAA ENC are limited in that they only represent the geographic region that is depicted in that particular NOAA ENC cell. By aggregating nautical features from all NOAA ENC in the creation of GIS data, a continuous depiction of the U.S. coastal and marine environment is achieved.

In addition, three specific theme layers can be viewed or obtained for the entire United States. These standardized data sets are based on several Federal Geographic Data Committee \(FGDC\) and Open Geospatial Consortium \(OGC\) standards.

National Geographic Kids Atlases
